THE OFFICE SEEKERS' MARCH

And the Gentle Clang of the Piano Tuner Broke the Stillness.

gia Boys Are Fairing.

Washington, April 28 .- (Special.)-Peace brooded over the white house today. The crowd had fled its halls. The doorkeepers down stairs had nothing to do but sit still and tell stories. On the floor above the tapping of the typewriters broke the silence as clerks in the executive offices rattled off the comforting assurance to expectant place seekers that their applications had been put on file. Over in the private part of the mansion could be heard the merry prattle of a childish tongue. Baby Ruth was having fun with her nurse. Up and down she tramped the length of the big hall with such persistency that it provoked comment.
"What is the game the baby is playing?"

"The office seekers march." was the prompt

News was received at the white house this morning of the marriage of William T. Sinclair, the president's steward, which oc-curred in Albany on Tuesday and was naturally a great event in the colored society of that town. The bride was Abbie L. ACCIDENT TO THE PRESIDENT.

His Forehead Strikes Against the Carriage

New York, April 28.—Despite the fatiguing exertions of yesterday President Cleveland arose early this morning. At 8:30 o'clock the president and members of the cabinet took breakfast together; at 10 o'clock Colonic Google W. McCiellan, Corporation Counsel Chark and Comptroller Myers were constituted a committee to escort the president to the reviewing stand and fitteen innutes later the president was ready to

The carriage awaited at the Fifth avenue entrance to the hotel. An immense crowd was gathered there and the police had no small difficulty in keeping a passageway to the carriages. When the president came out, he was greeted with cheers. He was the first to enter the carriages. After he took his seat, he put his hand to the right of his forehead above the ear, and when he withdrew it, the hand was covered with blood. Mr. Cleveland, in entering the carriage, had removed his hat, but not bending low enough had bumped his head against a corner of the top of the carriage, the buck having been let down. The president, on seeing the blood, immediately left the carriage and returned to the hotel. He was followed by the cabinet and the members of the escorting committee, who, were in not a little dismay at the mishap. The victoria which was to carry the president was a shabby affair and was driven by a shabby, ordinary conchman. In the hotel the president was immediately surrounded by the secretaries and several of the ladies. The contusion on his head bled profusely. Arnica was immediately applied, and a doctor sent for. In a short time Dr. Steven Burt arrived, scamined the wound and pronounced it not verious. Plasters were applied and the dood washed away. The president then announced himself ready to go into the arriage again. The front of the top of he vehicle had, in the meantime, been let low. The carriage awaited at the Fifth ave-

Secretaries Gresham and Carlisie. The last was occupied by Secretaries Smith, Morton and Ambassador Bayard.

The party proceeded to the reviewing stand at the city hall, the delay to the departure, caused by the president's injury being about twenty minutes.

Secretary of War Lamont remained with the ladies of the cabinet, who viewed the parade from the windows of the Victoria hotel until 11 o'clock, when they left for the president's train in Jersey City.

Off for Chicago.

A MARRIAGE IN WHITE HOUSE CIRCLES

The presidential party reached the city hall reviewing stand at 11 o'clock, but were obliged to leave the stand just as the head of the column was coming into sight in order to catch the train at Jersey City for Chicago. The party walked down from the city hall, through Warren and West streets to the Pennsylvania ferry, at the foot of Cortland street.

A couple of policemen at the head of the little body of plainly dressed men, gave the only touch of official formality to the departure. Even then no one recognized the president till the party reached the ferry entrance. President Cleveland came first, arm in arm with Perry Belmont, and showed no sign of having been injured while entering his carriage at the Victoria house. Behind the president, Secretaries Carlisle, Gresham, Bissell, Smith and Morton walked in double file. Two more policemen brought up the rear. The party went on board the boat and took seats in licemen brought up the rear. The party went on board the boat and took seats in the upper cabin. At the Pennsylvania station the party entered a special train, which was in waiting and left for Chicago at 12:15 o'clock.

Chicago Parties Write to Richmond and Offer to Buy the "White Bouse." Richmond, Va., April 28 .- (Special.)-Chicago wants to add the "white house of the confederacy" to her varied and novel attractions. She already has Libby prison, in which hundreds of federal risoners were incarcerated here during the war between the states and now some of her enterprising citizens are endeavoring to purchase the mausion in which Hon Jefferson Davis lived while president of the southern government. They desire simply to get the material and, as in the case of Libby prison, to transport it to the western metropois, where this historic structure would be reproduced and made a place for the exhibition of war memorates.

The real proposition to buy the old mansion, which is now used as a public school building but is soon to be converted into a confederate mussum, came this evening in the following letter received by Mrs. J. Taylor Ellyson, chairman of the relic committee of the museum from N. F. Notlaw, of the Great Northern hotel, Chicago: Dear Madame: I understand that the indies of Virginia have undertaken to transform the Jeff Davis mansion into a museum. Should you wish to dispose of this property, our company will arrange to build you a suitable house on the present site of the Jeff Davis mansion and will pay you the assessed value of the property, removing nothing except what the mansion is composed of, and will also make a suitable donation to assist in starting this southern museum. I would be very glad to hear from you or please advise and we will have parties call on you in regard to this matter.

Mrs. Ellyson has not yet had an opportu Mrs. Ellyson has not yet had an opportunity to submit the letter to the association, but is of the opinion that the ladies would not consider any proposition that could be made for the sale of the Davis mansion and its removal to Chicago.

Chicago parties are also negotiating for the handsome white mantels of Italian marble which were formerly in the Davis mansion, but were sold when the building was dedicated to school purposes in 1871. The owner, William B. Waldron, will not sell them for less than $2.500.

Although no action was taken at the conference, it no action was taken at the conference, it was established unmistakably in the minds of the bankers present, as all admitted this morning, that the government was determined to maintain the parity between gold and silver; that the secretary thoroughly understood the situation and that the stories that there was friction between the secretary and bankers of New York was absolutely without foundation.

It was learned on good authority that Secretary Carlisle was assured by the New York bank presidents of their willingness to come to the assistance of the government

York bank presidents of their willingness to come to the assistance of the government whenever in his opinion more gold was needed by the treasury. The terms on which the gold is to be furnished were left open. It was also agreed by all present that uneasiness based upon the intrenchment upon the $100,000,000 gold reserve fund was only sentimental and that at this time there was no necessity for a bond issue or of a gold loan to the treasury. The meeting was a most cordial one and all agreed that the actual meeting of the secretary with the bankers was most satisfactory.

MR3. CLEVELAND NOT ILL.

She Left Early to Catch the Train for Washington.

Washington.

Washington, April 28.—Misinformation regarding Mrs. Cleveland's indisposition yesterday was responsible for the reports that she had been taken ill during the naval review and compelled to return to Washington. She came back in the best of spirits and this morning is in her usual good health The facts in the matter are these:

When the details of the president's trip to New York and Chicago were arranged early in the week one of them was that Mrs. Cleveland, inasmuch as she was not going to accompany the president to Chicago, should return to Washington on the train over the Penusylvania railroad, leaving at 5 o'clock Thursday afternoon. The hour for the review having been fixed at 10:30 o'clock a. m., it was supposed there would be time after the presidential party left the Dolphin to return to the hotel and then to drive to the station. The postponment of the review from 10:30 to 2 o'clock necessitated a change in Mrs. Cleveland's programme.

Instead of returning to the hotel Admiral tated a change in Mrs. Cleveland's programme.

Instead of returning to the hotel Admiral Gheraridi provided a tug to take Mrs. Cleveland, Mrs. Bissell, wife of the postmaster general, and Secretary Thurber direct to the Pennsylvania railroad in Jersey City. The baggage consisted of handsatchels only and was taken from the hotel by Mrs. Cleveland's maid and received by them on the train. The party traveled in a private car attached to the regular train and arrived in Washington according to programme about 11 o'clock.

A THIRD INDICTMENT

Arnica was immediately applied, and a doctor sent for. In a short time Dr. Steven Burt arrived, sxamined the wound and pronounced it not erious. Plasters were applied and the dood washed away. The president then amounced himself ready to go into the arriage again. The front of the top of he vehicle had, in the meantime, been let lown.

When the president came out he was heared long and loud. Mr. McClellan, Ir. Clark and Mr. Myers entered the president the next carriage were worthless.

THE GRAND PARADE YESTERDAY.

Frenchmen, Russians, Brittons, Germans, Italians and Others

MARCH ALONG WITH THE AMERICANS

Their Bands Pleying Their Own Nationa Airs-The Great Crowds of Spectators.
Incidents of the Day.

New York, April 28.—Remarkable as was the gathering of foreign men-of-war in our harbor to participate in the naval review, still more remarkable was the spec forces of foreign nations armed and robed since the British evacuated New York has such an occurrence been witnessed here, and in no country but ours is such an oc-currence possible. With muskets at their shoulders and small arms by their sides, the foreigners invaded our soil today and marched down America's greatest street-Broadway. Grim, fierce-looking Russians sturdy Britons, ruddy-faced Germans trim, quick-moving Frenchmen, and dark visaged Italians marched in file after file with their own officers commanding, and with their own bands playing the airs that they love best. But they were not our captives. Our marines and blue jackets preceded them and our national guardsmen followed in their rear. The arts of peace had superseded the strategy of war, and the armed forces of nine nations marched in our streets as though our country and theirs were one and they and we were

The first suggestion that our visitors be invited to land their men and take part in a land parade was declared by the big wigs of our navy as out of the question. It was not until President Cleveland took the mat-ter in hand that the foreign admirals were asked if they would land their men. The heartiness with which nearly all the foreigners accepted the invitation when it was extended indicated the good will existing between their governments and ours, and this dispelled all doubts as to the possibility of having the foreigners take part in a demonstration on shore. The Marines Delighted.

The news, when it reached the jack tars caused great delight. They are proud of their ships and they did their part toward making the marine spectacle a magnificent success, but they looked forward to today's success, but they looked forward to today's parade as an opportunity to show the Americans of what stuff they are made, and at the same time have a good look at the Americans, in whom they are much interested.

The admirals and commanders had been The admirals and commanders had been dined and feted and the day had arrived when the middies, the red-coated marines, the artillery men and the blue jackets would have their turn. Hence there was joy between the decks this morning. Every man of them had brushed up his uniform, polished his musket, burnished his cartridge box and belt and was ready for the outing when the boatswain piped to quarters and when the boatswain piped to quarters and the men were inspected before starting for the shore.

Each vessel retained enough men to keep her shipshape and to take care of her in her shipshape and to take care of her in any emergency that might arise. When the long boat, the cutter and the gig were dropped over the side, the men slid into them and in an instant were pulling toward the shore with the peculiar stroke that marks the man o' war's man.

Landing the Foreigners Ten o'clock was the time of forming the line, and the place was on Forty-second street from the West Shore ferry, extending toward Sixth avenue. An hour before that time the white boats of our own navy and the old-shaped boats of the foreigners began to arrive at the foot of Forty-second street and the vicinity of the landing, assumed a blue aspect from the number of uniforms of that color. Several platoons of uniforms of that color. Several platoons of police were on hand to keep back the crowd of sight-seers, who had assembled, and there was considerable difficulty in maintaining the lines, so eager were the crowd to have a close look at the swarthy tars of other nations. Our own sailors were not neglected. They were cheered, but there was no rush to get near them, for they had no eagles or crows embroidered on their sleeves, and they were too well known to excite curiosity.

they were too well known to excite curiosity.

Every armory in the city was as busy as a bee-hive early this morning. National guardsmen gave a final burnish to their arms, a final rub to buttons, chevrons and epaulettes and then fell in at the word of command. The whole of the First brigade and the naval reserve had been ordered out. The latter had been on duty on the water yesterday while their evolutions were limited to the narrow docks of the tugs. Today they made a better showing on parade and besides they had the naval militia of Massachusetts as their guests.

The proceedings today were managed by General Louise Fitzgerald of the New York state national guard and Commander J. W. Miller, of the naval reserve, acting under the direction of Admiral Gheraridi and the committee of one hundred citizens appointed by the mayor.

The Relewing Stands.

Reviewing stands had been erected by they were too well known to excite curiosity.

Reviewing stands had been erected by the committee at Madison square and at City Hall park. From these stands the admirals and officers of the vessels in the river and other invited guests witnessed the parade. Hundreds of private stands had been erected along Broadway, Fifth avenue and Forty-second street, and windows, balconies and roofs along the route were utilized by the crowds who filled every place which commanded a view of were utilized by the crowds who filled every place which commanded a view of the column.

The decorations along the line of march were not extensive owing to the storm of yesterday in terfering with the work of trimming the buildings. West Forty-second street presented the gayest appearance. Nearly every house was festooned with bunting. Just west of Sixth avenue, a big American flag was hung across the street. At Madison square nearly every large building was draped with the stars and stripes and the emblems of the visitors who took part in the parade. At the corner of Fifth avenue and Washington square a handsome display of flags was made. Along Broadway the principal business houses were brilliant with color and the front of the city hall was covered with banners and streamers.

Governor Flower rode at the head of the procession. A platoon of mounted policemen cleared the way. The governor was followed by details from the United States army and engineer corps. Then came the admirtals in carriages. The foreigners were escorted by officers of our own navy.

Bradstreet will tomorrow say: "General business this week has been affected unfavorably, exceptions being so rare as to make them conspicuous. In general lines at Pittsburg, St. Louis and Omaha there is said to have been some improvement in volume, but at most other points there is a falling off, owing to unseasonable weather and stringent money. JONES ORDERED DISCHARGED.

quisition of Governor Flower.

Nashville, Tenn., April 28.—(Special.)—A little over a month ago, W. C. Jones, of Columbia, Tenn., was arrested upon a warrant issued by Governor Turney upon a requisition made upon him by Governor Flower, of New York, upon the grounds that Jones had been indicted in New York for larceny in the first degree, growing out of transactions relating to the purchase of trotting horses at Dunkirk. A few days ago, the papers and briefs in an application to Governor Turney to withdraw this warrant were filed with the governor by John Woodward, district aftorney from Jamestown, N. Y., representing that state. Today Governor Turney rendered the following decision:

"To Hon. J. M. Anderson, Judge of the Criminal Court, Nashville, Tenn.! Petitioner Jones was arrested upon a warrant issued by me as governor, based thom a requisition from the governor of New York. Jones came before you on a petition for habeas corpus. The matter was continued until my action could be had in application to revoke the warfant. quisition of Governor Flower.

matter was continued until my action be had in application to revoke the warfaut. I have carefully examined the facts of the matter as presented by both sides, and am now of the opinion that the prosecution has been instituted not for the purpose of vindibeen instituted not for the purpose of indi-cating the law, but for the purpose of col-lecting a private debt, and, I will add, a debt not justly due, and one that could not be collected by law. The evidence satisfies me that the purpose is to get Jones, who is not a fugitive from New York, and of the state and into New York in the hope of collecting or compromising a fraudulent claim. I thereand into New York in the hope of collecting or compromising a fraudulent claim. I, therefore, revoke the warrant, and discharge Jones from arrest made by virtue of it. This will, I suppose, of course, end it by the habeas corpus proceedings before you. I address this to you because Jones has given bond to appear in your court when my decision has been made known. Respectfully, "P. TURNEY, Governor."

Judge Andersoll, to whom this communication is addressed, has the habeas corpus protion is addressed, has the habeas corpus pro-ceedings brought by Jones when he was arrested under advisement awaiting the governor's action, and when his court meets tomorrow it is believed he will act as the governor indicates and grant the writ of

and He Reconsidered.

London, April 28.—The Pall Mall Gazette states on the day that the new Irish home rule bill was passed to a second reading William Townsend, the man under arrest on the nominal charge of having discharged a revolver unlawfully in a public place, but really on suspicion of having intended to assassinate Mr. Gladstone, lay in wait for Mr. Gladstone's departure from his residence with the purpose of murdering the premier. Townsend was armed with a loaded revolver and was deliberately prepared to shoot Mr. Gladstone as soon as he came in reach. When Mr. Gladstone came out of his residence and the would-be assassin saw him, his purpose weakened, for the peculiar reason that the venerable appearance of the premier reminded Townsend of his own father's appearance on his deathbed. The pistol slipped from the fingers of the intending assassin, and he rushed into the park and sank on a bench and burst into tears. It is asserted that Townsend made his way into the central hall of the house of commons on the same night and vigorously denounced the home rule bill.

DICK RUSSELL AND WILEY BURNETT

Judge Mc Whorter Has to Call Them Down-A Day of Sensations.

Athens, Ga., April 28 .- (Special.)-The trial of the Beusse boys and W. P. Briggs for the killing of Conductor Cadle reached an interesting stage today. New characters appeared in the performances. New evidence was introduced. Sensations followed, and tonight the trial is the one theme of gossip, and all kind of speculation is indulged in. Charles Hill has done one of the hardest day's work of his life, and has been master of the situation. This afternoon Solicitor General Dick Russell took the reins and a personal difficulty between him and W. B. Burnett, attorney for the defense, came near result ing in the court room. The tilt was over the testimony of new witness, J. A. Robertson, who went be fore the grand jury, and upon whose testimony it is said that the indictments against defendants were found. The state would not put Robertson on the stand in the trial, and E. K. Lumpkin, one of the defendant's counsel, said that in all fairness it ought to have been done. He sought to have one of the grand jurors swear as to what Robertson's testimony was before the grand jury, Mr. E. I. Smith was put upon the stand and swore that Robertson appeared before the grand jury, and that the indictment was not found until after Robertson's arrival. He claimed to have been an eye-witness, and Fwore as to Cadle being hit by a stick in the hands of a man with a scar on his

Mr. Lumpkin stated that the whole mat ter was a scheme of the Brotherhood of Railway Conductors, who had raised a large amount for the prosecution of the de fendants, and that C. M. Simmons, the principal witness for the state, admitted that he had contributed $10 towards the fund. Mr. Lumpkin stated that Robert son was a perjured villain, and that the de fense would prove it. He stated that if the indictment could not be found until the appearance of Robertson, then the jury should have the advantage of what he told the grand jury.

Solicitor Dick Russell here arose and said that it had been insinuated that the state's counsel was guilty of a scheme to secure perjured witnesses, and he just wanted to say that the state's counsel had never held caucuses with its witnesses behind closed doors and by candle light,

Here Mr. Burnett, for the defense, ros and made a move toward Solicitor Russell, asking angrily if the state's counsel means insinuate that any of the counsel for the defense has been guilty of anything dishonorable.

Russell met him in the same angry attitude. Judge McWhorter promptly and emphatically called both attorneys down just in time to prevent blows. Here the testimony of several witnesses was introduced by the defense, to the effect

Rome, Ga., April 28 .- (Special.)-May 9th will be a great day in Rome. On that day the Hill City fire department will give its annual parade, and there will be a number of interesting contests. The entire fire department will parade in full uniform, and all of the apparatus will be shown in actual operation. These parades and con tests are made doubly interesting by the intense rivalry existing between the dif-ferent companies. Rome has one of the finest volnteer fire departments in the south, and every company is constantly on the alert to beat the others in every race and to win the applause of the crowds which rush to every fire, no matter how small. It has frequently been remarked by strangers that Rome comes the nearest going wild over a fire of any other city in the world. Everybody who does not be-long to the department has some friends in one or the other, and everybody wants his favorite company to surpass the others. All railroads leading in to Rome have ar-reneed for everying rates on that day All railroads leading in to Rome have arranged for excursion rates on that day, and hundreds of visitors are expected from the surrounding towns and cities. A GEORGIA CASE,

In Baltimore.

AN ALLEGED CASE OF ABDUCTION

In Which a Mulatto Girl Is the Leading Figure-An Old Case Comes Up Again.

Baltimore, Md., April 28 .- (Special.)-Surrounded with considerable secrecy the habeas corpus case of Mary Toomer, the sixteen-year-old Georgia girl whom it is alleged two men tried to kidnap, was heard pefore Judge Phelps today. Court was held in Judge Harland's prirate office. At the door was stationed leputy sheriff to keep out the curious. Shortly before 11 o'clock the girl. accompanied by 'two sisters of the St. Frances orphan asylum and academy, walked nto criminal court. They were quickly ushered into Judge Harland's office, where Judge Phelps was in waiting.

Mary Toomer, who is almost white, is really a very pretty girl. As she was hurried through the courtroom all eyes followed her until lost to view behind the guarded door of the inner room. Dressed very neatly in a well fitting street costum of seal brown and wearing in her hat, which matched her suit, red flowers, she presented a striking contrast to the somber garb of the accompanying sisters. It is said that she is an heiress and at the age of twenty-one will come into the possession of $50,000.

The case is a remarkable one in which family ties, money, marriage, divorce proceedings and alleged attempted abduction are some of the features.

On March 20th, of this year, Nathan Toomer, father of the girl, arrived in this Toomer, father of the girl, arrived in this city from Augusta, Ga., with his daughter and drove at once to the St. Frances Orphans' asylum and academy of Chase street. Here the girl was given in charge of the mother superior to be educated. Instructions were left that neither money nor pains should be spared in fitting the girl for the position she was expected to occupy in the colored society of the south.

The petition to the writ alleged unlawful restraint of the girl's liberty, the affidavit to which was made by Dunbar Walton. The writ was made returnable before Judge Wright, May 8th. May Sth.

The mother superior of St. Frances on April 27th returned an affidavit to the court by her counsel, William Colton, which stated that the girl was in the custody of the institution for the purpose of education, as a paid boarder of the acad-emy, and that the mother superior was willing and ready to produce the girl at eourt whenever called upon, even before

He stated his daughter's age to be but fourteen years; that he had placed her with the sisters to be educated: also that Dunbar Walton, who made affidavit to a petition for a writ of habeas corpus, was then under $2,500 bail for the action of the grand jury, charged with conspiring with Louis Frank and others to unlawfully seize and carry off his daughter.

The object of Walton and others, The object of Walton and others, t stated, in conspiring to carry off the girl was to place her in the hands of her step-brother, Charles J. Dixon, of Au gusta, who was not the proper person to have custody of her and that it was for the benefit of his daughter, who was not unlawfully detained, that she was brought to Baltimore and placed with the sisters at St. Frances and that the case should be heard at once.

said that he was not ready with the evidence which he expected to produce on May Sth, the time set for the hearing of the case. His point was that the girl was unlawfully detained, as she was over sixteen years of age, which he would be able to prove. The court remanded the igirl to the custody of the mothers superior of the in-It is stated that an attempt was made

It is stated that an attempt was made April 16th to spirit away the girl and carry her out of the state by a colored woman who called at the institution with a written communication, said to have been from Charles J. Dixon. Dixon, who is the stepbrother of Mary Toomer, is an intelligent negro of twenty-four. He is a planter and lives near Augusta. He states that the girl's father offered to give him her hand in marriage for $15,000. This he states that he was unwilling to do as the love is mutual between his step-sister and himself. The only draw-back to an early wedding, he states, is that he formed an unhappy alliance at the age of seventeen years. Proceedings are now going on in the courts of Georgia, which he says will set him free in a short time.

Georgia, which he says will set him free in a short time.

These proceedings bring to mind a very interesting case which came up in the southern courts some years ago. It was the mother of Charles Dixon, who afterwards married Nathan Toomer that acquired notoriety and a great deal of meney in a will case that was hoffy contested. She was the child of a white planter in the south who left a fortune of several millions. She went by the name of America. the south who left a fortune of several millions. She went by the name of Amanda Eubanks, that of her mother, intil the courts gave her the name of her father and a share of his estate. Mary Toomer is the daughter of his first wife. Charles G. Dixon is the step-son of Nathan Toomer, who objects to the union of his two children.

BEN BIVINS TELLS THE STORY, A MOST MYSTERIOUS DISAPPEARANCE.

Final Act in the Good Work Done by the

der-Both Men Sent Up. The last act in what is, perhaps, the finest and cleverest piece of work ever done by the Atlanta de-tective department was played out afternoon. It was the finale of a long succession of tragic acts, which began nearly one year ago with the foul assassination of Captain A. C. Sloane on the outskirts of McDonough, in which a deep and seemingly impenetraole mystery from the very first was unraveled and laid bare by the Atlan'ta detectives after three weeks of sleepness work and

After being out thirty-six hours the jury empaneled to try Jim Schaefer, the negro arrested by the Atlanta detectives for the murder of Cap'tain Sloane, for the commission of the cowardly murder, returned a verdict of guilty with a recommendation This was the second time that this verdict had been returned, and Ben Bivins, the yellow negro preacher, went to the penitentiary six months ago to serve out a life sentence for complicity with Scaefer in the midnight assassination. The conviction of Schaefer and Bivins was ought about solely on circumstantial evidence, and many of the features were of so strange and unusual a character as to make the case strongly resemble the of the old Cap Collier library. of the old Cap Collier library.

On Sunday night, May 18th, last year, Captain A. C. Sloane was shot in his bed some one standing at the window on e outside of his bedroom, and the wound was of such a serious nature tha't he died on the following day. Mrs. Sloane was severely wounded at the same time, but recovered. Captain Sloane was one of the recovered. Captain Sloane was one of the oldest and wealthiest citizens of Henry county. He lived on the outskirts of the little town in a pretty, picturesque home, where he was spending his declining years contentedly. It was generally believed that he was the possessor of a large sum of money, and as it was known that he did not patronize any bank, it was believed that he kept the money hidden about his home. The motive of the killing was readily and correctly surmised to be robbery.

The assassination occurred about 9 o'clock at night. Captain Sloane had just retired and Mrs. Sloane was preparing to do so. The assassin crept up to the window and, placing a tub beneath it, hoisted himself upon the top and fired into the room. The house is remote from any other, and the sounds of the shot and the cries of the aged couple were not heard. The assassins escaped without leaving any signs by which they could be traced. The murder stirred the little town to its very foundation and a big reward was of-fered. It was two weeks after the mu-der occurred that the Atlanta detectives began to work on the case. Captain Wright and Detectives Cason, Green and Looney went to work on the case. After a few days they arrested Ben case. After a few days they arrested Ben Bivins, a negro preacher who lived in Atlanta, but who had spent the day of the killing in McDonough. Bivins confessed that he was at the Sloane home on the night of the killing. He named a negro. Jim Schaefer, as the man who fired the fatal shot. He stated that he and Scaefer had gone to the house from church and that he had run away as fast as he could when Scaefer fired the shot. Scaefer fired the shot.

he had run away as last as he could when Scaefer fired the shot.

The two negroes were carried to McDonough and placed in fail. Six months ago they were tried, and at the trial Bivins denied that he had anything to do with the killing, and said that he was frightened into the confession that he had made by the Atlanta detectives, who had a gallows prepared and threatened to hang him if he did not tell. Notwithstanding this he and Schaefer were given sentences of life imprisonment. The latter secured a new trial and this second trial was begun last Monday. Bivins was brought back to appear as a witness at the trial, and he, trial and this second trial was begun has Monday. Bivins was brought back to appear as a witness at the trial, and he, to the surprise of every one, reiterated the contession he had first made to the detec-

lives and implicated Schaefer.

After the hearing of the testimony, the jury retired and remained out for thirtysix hours. It was thought that a verdict of murder in the first degree would be re-turned, but the jury returned a verdict of guilty with a recommendation yesterday afternoon. The two negroes will be sent to the peni-

AN EVENING WITH ARTISTS.

Cultured Audience Last Night.

It was an evening to be remembered. Campobello never sang so well nor with greater charm than he did last night. He was at his best and that means that every-body who came under the spell of his magnificent voice was entranced.

And Mrs. Carnes, the prima donna, was easily at home with the operatic airs that she sang. She has a voice that charms one with thrilling ecstacy and delight. The programme was excellent and was rendered in a most perfect way. In other words, it was an evening with genuine artists, as every one knew they would hear when the first announcement of the event was chronicled by The Constitution several days ago.

It was a matter of regret that Signor de Pasqualis could not come to Atlanta to sing with the artists, as was at first announced, but his part was taken in "Faust" by Mr. Hugh Angier with admirable capability.

Signor Campobello as Mephisto was what every one knew he would be. Many of them had heard him in it before in the splendid opera houses of New England. He sang with much richness and was many times encored with repeated calls.

Miss Julynne Sneed's plano solos were very excellently rendered and deserved all of the applause she received.

When Mrs. Carnes sang from the grand anene and aria, "Ah Fors 'e Lui" ("La Traviata") she was cheered till the house shook with enthusiastic applause, and when she came back to sing "The Last Rose of Summer" the storm of apprediative applause was renewed. It was beyond description—the rendition of this part of the programme.

Campobello was at the zenith of his part of the programme in the air of the "Toreador."

The programme closed with the second act "then Presquale" which was given in most It was an evening to be remembered.

dor."

The programme closed with the second act of "Don Pasquale." which was given in most beautiful style. Everything about the entertainment went off brilliantly.

At the matince today the artists will give "Cavalleria Rusticana" and the mad scene from "Lucia."

A Gentleman Well-to-Do, Highly Thought of and Happy in His Domestic Relations Strangely Disappears.

Mr. J. W. Hoxie, thirty-two years old, a well-to-do business man, the owner of con-siderable real estate and proprietor of a large grocery store at the corner of Marietta and Hampton streets, has strangely disapin the McDonough courthouse yesterday peared.

About 8 o'clock yesterday morning he left his place of business with a considerable sum of money which he was to carry to the bank. Since that time he has not been heard from by his wife or employes. The strangest part of the disappearance is that Mr. Hoxie has never yet remained away from home for so long a time without letting his wife know his whereabouts. He is a man of regular and temperate habits and is so strictly at-tentive to his business that he rarely ever ses as much as an hour away from it.

Mr. Hoxie's absence had not extended over an hour before his wife began to feel anxious about him. Knowing him as she did she felt sure that something must have appened and had a search instituted. Last night she was wild with anxiety and was ortured with many fears as to his safety.

If Mr. Hoxie was a man of intemperate nabits or a man embarrassed in business his absence would not be hard to account for, but as he never drinks and as his financial standing is of the very best, his friends and his wife are completely mysti-

Besides owning considerable real estate Mr. Hoxie conducts a very prosperous bus-iness at the corner of Marietta and Hamp-ton streets. He does a heavy trade, having as his customers the factory people almost in a body. Day before yesterday was payin a body. Day before yesterday was day and Mr. Hoxie collected a large an of money from his customers. This money he prepared for bank yesterday morning and soon after opening his store started up town to deposit his money. He carried with him one or two bills which he intended collecting on the way to the city.

Last night a number of Mr. Hoxie's friends were busy searching for that gentleman. Not a word could they hear of him anywhere. No one could be found who had seen him since he left his place of business yesterday morning. He has been complaining of being ill for some time and it is thought that he might have suddenly taken sick and the hospitals were visited, but he was found at one of them. Mr. Hoxie has a wife, but no children. Mr. Hoxie has a wife, but no children. He came to Atlanta some years ago from Wisconsin and has made a fine reputation in business circles for promptness in meeting his obligations and energy in conducting business. He has prospered finely since coming here. It is hoped that he will turn up today, but it is also feared that he has been the victim of foul play.

INTERESTING DEDICATION EXERCISES

Of the Donald Fraser High School Decatur. Decatur has, for four years past, prided herself on having within her borders the noted Agnes Scott institute, which, as a college for the higher education of young ladies, ranks among the best in the south.

The Presbyterians of that town believe in education, and higher education, as firmly as they do in the shorter catechism, and no sooner was their college for young ladies finished than they began to look forward to a good preparatory school of high grade for their boys. On the opposite side of the village, and about a half-mile from the Agnes Scott, they have laid the broad foundation of what is destined to become one of the leading preparatory schools for boys in the south. The site is that of the old Presbyterian church. The church building, a large and well-constructed brick building, has been, at considerable expense, repaired and remodeled, and as it is now arranged makes an admirable school building, with accommodations for 150 boys. On Monday afternoon it was formally turned over to Professor G. H. Gardner, the principal of the Donald Fraser High school. The exercises were Interesting to large audience, and were participated in by Rev. F. H. Gaines, Hon. M. A. Candler, Major W. J. Houston and others.

It will not aspire to be a college, but it alms to thoroughly prepare boys for college, and in this it has a wide field in Georgia.

The school is under Presbyterian control, although non-secturian in its influences.

Reward. A THREE HANDED FIGHT FOR IT.

Wimbish Says the Terms of the Reward Were That the Arresting Officer Who Jailed Him Got the Reward.

Patrolman J. T. Wimbish, tracked Lewis Redwine to his hiding place and arrested him, has grown impatient at the delay in receiving the $1,000 reward offered for the capture of the defaulting assistant cashier and is going to try the courts for his rights. The delay practiced by the bank's officials

n paying the $1,000 to Wimbish is due to the fact that two other claimants are pressing their claims to the reward and it was more than likely that a great tangle of lit igation would arise if the money was paid to Wimbish and they refrained from doing so and to this day not one cent of the reward offered by President Hill has been paid out.

The scramble for the reward arose on the day Redwine was arrested by Wimbish. Mrs. Marquis de LaFayette Oaks, at whose house Redwine was stopping when caught and who pointed out Redwine to the arresting officer, put in her claim two hours after Redwine reached police headquarters and while he was still being cross questioned by the Hills in Chief Connolly's office.

The third claimant to the reward was The third claimant to the reward The third claimant to the reward was Horace Owens, whose connection with the Redwine case is well known to the public. He based his claim to the reward on the statement made by himself that he had Redwine under arrest at the time he was taken into custody by Wimbish. The police authorities chose to believe differently, statement made by himself that he had Redwine under arrest at the time he was taken into custody by Wimbish. The police authorities chose to believe differently, however, and arrested Owens for holding the embezzling cashier from the officers of the law. But the United States grand jury took a different view of his connection with the case and he was released from custody. His attorneys believe his release by the grand jury will greatly aid him in his suit for the reward.

The three-handed fight for the reward went on quietly until yesterday, when the attorneys for Patrolman Wimbish prepared an brought suit against President L. J. Hill for $1,000. Patrolman Wimbish is repre-Judge James A. Anderson and Broyles & Son.

I have often seen statements from people that I am not doing justice unless my testimony is added. I have been suffering with sick vomiting spells for three or four years, with giddiness, most of the time almost perfeetly prostrated. I had no appetite, and suffered also with neuralgia in my head and eyes. I was treated for two years by the best physiclans, but found no relief. They would tell me and that I must have patience. But after two years I though patience ceased to be a virtue. I was growing so weak I could not sleep at night. And ween I was able to go out, I was afraid to go far from home. I was constantly tired; I could not go up or down stairs or raise my arms above my head without giddiness, and was so afraid to look up that I became accustomed to holding my head down. At Last

I was persuaded to take Hood's Sarsaparilla, and after using four bottles, my improvement in health is wonderful. I candidly believe I am cured of all my ailments. My appetite is good, can eat at any time, am free fro ralgia and other troubles. I mever felt so ried and I am mother of nine children. I have increased from 125 to 143 pounds. Freight Rate Issue.

Governor Northen and the Common Schools-Other Happenings at the Capitol.

The state railroad commissioners were engaged in tedious deliberation yesterday over the tiresome case that is growing out of the application on the part of the railroads of the state for a higher schedule of freight rates.

The details of the case have already been printed in the columns of The Constitution and it is known with what determination the railroads are moving to the accomplishment of this end. They say that they must have an increase in rates adopted by the railroad commission in self-defense and are bringing every effort to bear upon the case. The application is an informal one, but the case that is growing out of it is assuming wonderful proportions.

The commissioners will not, perhaps, reach a decision in the case for several The railroads want the rates increased on the legal schedule 25 per cent. The commissioners were busy all yes terday with the hearing of the case. They find that the evidence that is being brought upon the situation is voluminous and they have to argue for long hours at a time and equitable basis of freight rates can be adjusted in this line of freight or that. However, the schedule of rates will be handed down by the commissioners in a

The Governor Gone Away.

Governor Northen and Commissioner of Education S. D. Bradwell went to Lexing-ton yesterday to attend a great school rally. They will both make speeches there today, and will clearly set forth the benefits to be derived from a thorough system of higher education in the state this year with an increase in the capacity of the state normal school at Athens and the continued growth of the common schools which ought to go hand in hand with the growth of the higher institutions of learn-ing like the Normal institute. The governor, who has always been a great enthusiast in his support of the common schools, has gone one step farther and is now trying to build up in Georgia a more friendly feeling among the people for the State university and all of the higher institutions of learning.

He is squarely upon a platform of higher education along with the common schools. He believes that they are both necessary for the advancement of the educational interests of the state. He thinks that the universities turn out the teachers and that the schools turn out the students of the universities, thus making the circuit complete, the schools feeding the universities and the colleges giving the schools ties and the colleges giving the schools better teachers, thus elevating education in the state very materially.

With such thoughts in his mind the governor has been going around among the schools of the state whenever there is a county institute where many educators and friends of higher education are apt-to be gathered. He has been preaching such a system of education to the farmers and the common people from Tybee to the Blue Ridge.

The State Library

Colonel John Millege, at the state library, announces that he is in receipt of the Ninth Georgia reports and that the lawyers of the state can get them by calling on him or sending the amount necessary for the payment for the same.

He has recently secured for the archives of the library a complete set of Frank Shepard's annotations, which is the most needed review of the laws of the country that is printed. The lawyers and business men who visit the library from time to time will find this book of great value to them. It is for the entire country, giving the review of reports for every state and territory in the union.

The Horticultural Society. There will be a very interesting and im-portant meeting of the Horticultural So-ciety in the rooms of the commissioner of agriculture at the statehouse today at 10 o'clock.

This society is under most auspicious environments and has a wide awake membership. There will be a lecture before the members today upon "How Plants Feed Themselves," by Mr. C. K. Maddox. It will be a very entertaining and instructive paper for the author is a botanist of no mean degree. nean degree.

The society has decided to have an exhibit at the world's fair if there is any possible chance to secure the funds necessary for it. There is a committee from the society for the investigation of the exhibits to be displayed in the horticultural building at the world's fair, and this committee is supposed to look well into the work and make report to the society at an early meeting. It has also been determined by the society to offer a prize to the young boy or girl who will secure the largest collection of cut flowers next year for the use of the Ladies' Memorial Association in decorating the graves of the unknown soldiers who sleep beneath the sod of Oakland cemetery. From this and the many other commendation and the many other commendations of the University of the Univers have entered upon a purpose to make the society far more prifitable than it was ever at any previous time.

"OH, LORD! WHERE WILL I BEP"

Were the Last Words He Spoke-Five Thousand People Witnessed the Hanging at Knoxville.

Knoxville, Ga., April 28.—(Special.)— Nathan Smith, colored, one of two parties who committed murder upon the persons of Dow Walker and Randall Bell, also colored, in this county on the 1st day of February last, and who was condemned to death at the March term of Crawford superior court, was today publicly, and in the the neck until he was dead.

For some time after he was apprehended he denied the crime with which he was charged, and it was not until a few days since that he confessed to having any knowledge of it, and until the last denied having fired either of the fatal shots.

Smith was a negro of more than ordinary intelligence, and had a very good education for a negro. Since he has been confined in jail he has spent the greater part of his time in writing a history of his life, which he requested be turned over to Mr. G. A. Carroway, of Thomaston, for publication.

Seemingly it did not trouble him in the least to suffer the penalty, and he met death boldly and expressing a hope of his

He made quite a lengthy statement while He made quite a lengthy statement while on the gallows, but it was somewhat disconnected. Among other things he advised his hearers not to reap where they had sown and shun bad company, stating that it was on account of the latter that he had to die the death of a murderer. He asked the sheriff to send his body to his relatives, who live in Griffin.

The drop fell at five minutes past 1 o'clock, and in just eleven minutes he was pronounced dead by the attending physicians, Drs. J. W. Jones, J. R. Kinney, J. N. Smith and J. W. Mitchell, his neck having been dislocated.

His last words were, "Oh! Lord, where will I be in a few minutes?"

To weakly womanhood no prize could be more secure, nor the benefit more lasting than that to be derived from the purchase of a bottle of this famous "Prescription." Its success in curing all the functional derangements, painful disorders, and chronic weaknesses of women, warrants its makers in guaranteeing it. What this medicine has done for thousands of delicate women, it will do for you. At the two critical periods in woman's life, the change from girlhood to womanhood, and, later, the "change of life," it's an invaluable tonic and a soothing nervine, which can produce only good results. It cures cases of nervous prostration, insomnia, or inability to sleep, and many nervous disorders due to derangement of the functions.

troducing their progressive system to this state has induced hundreds from nearly every city and town in the south to quickly respond to the call to investigate the system which, from reports of the New York and Boston press, would seem more potent in its active power of healing than all the boasted science since the world began. Out of the number who called so far 2,710 have been examined and 1,406 have been pronounced incurable and their cases not taken for treatment.

From the reports of those already under treatment it would seem that the Georgia branch was established upon a foundation equally as strong as the home institutions, which, for the past fifteen years, has controlled the chronic diseases of New England. Those who cannot wait their turn in the reception rooms can receive appointments to their convenience by applying at the office, No. 100 North Pryor street. IRTTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Interesting Facts About Gold. Editor Constitution—The Chicago Inter-Ocean rightly says that gold is the poorest kind of money because it is the only money in the country which is liable to be worth less than its face. Our coins, from the cent up o the standard dollar, are of full value so long as the stamp of the mint is legible, but this is not the case with gold.

The banks do not like to hoard gold. It is expensive, and if they can be assured that the government will not permit the yellow coins o go to a premium they will gladly get rid of them. They would prefer silver or paper currency. Our Chicago contemporary says that some time ago a national bank sent to a sub-treasury $35,000 in gold to be exchanged for some other kind of money. Each piece had to be weighed, and 10 per cent of the whole amount was found to be below the minimum these light-weight pieces were rejected, and, sooner or later, their holders will have to stand a loss. Probably about one-tenth of the gold in the country outside of the treasury and subtreasuries would not stand the test Now, this disadvantage appertains other kind of money, and it is plain that, viewed from a sensible and practical busine

In the near future the most obvious considerations of economy and utility will lead all commercial nations to abandon a system under which gold is the only standard, and gold, silver and legal tender paper will be-come the accepted currency of the country. ATLANTA, GA., April 29, 1893.

An Unfair Astack. The Charleston News and Courier, astead of doing the cause of law and order good service by making a successful crusade against the Denma k lynchers, switches off on another line and, as if to satisfy a personal grudge, lays the entire blame on Governor Tillman.

It suggests a new coat of arms for outh Carolina, bearing the picture of gallows with a negro dangling at the end of a rope, with various embellishments in the shape of hangman's nooses istols, demijohns, etc. "Such a coat of arms," says our contemporary, uld represent accurately the present dition and civilization of South Caroerved distinction upon Governor Till-

This is not legitimate criticism: it is nation of the brain. The name of Tillman has the same effect upon the editor of The News and Courier that a red rag has upon a bull. Let it appear that Tillman is connected, directly or indirectly, incidentally or rewith anything that is objectionable, and he is at once saddled with all blame, whether he deserves if or proper steps to protect the negro who was lynched at Denmark, and says that he never dreamed that the mob would ifice the life of a prisoner. It seems to us that this ugly sugges on of a new coat of arms for South Carolina is an uncalled for reflection upon the people of the whole state as ell as upon the governor. The resibility should be placed where it belongs-upon the heads of the lynchers Whatever the governor did, or did not do, he did nothing in-The men who fized and lynched the negro are the

A Voice from the West. Whenever the financial situation is ler discussion in the west platitudes cut no figure in it. great west has her back up, and no mood for trimming, hedging and dodging. An illustration of this spirit crops out in The St. Louis Rec's treatment of the gold question. Our contemporary declares that gold either begging or borrowing from the nts can be maintained without erats. It says:

a very short time and a still shorter time ill be required to pass a measure that will sure a perfect stream of gold into the easury and remove all fear on the part of a plutocratic friends that any debt owed em will be paid in silver.

An income tax of from 5 to 10 per cent on incomes over ten thousand dollars a year a be levied and made payable in gold only, als will insure an abundance of gold in the easury, and will also give ample funds to set the constant increase of expenditure a pensions. It will also allow a reduction the tariff to a strictly revenue basis with the necessity of increasing the tax on thaty.

We quote this in order to show the and drift of sentiment in the It is by no means necessary e proposed tax on incomes should in gold, but, as our contemporary s it, if we are to maintain the single standard this is a sensible and andard this is a sensible and alcal way of doing it. If we must an the gold basis, says The Return is no problem about it.

All that is required is a vote in congress, that can be had in a few weeks at farthest, and by the exercise of the sovereignty of $5,000,000 of people, organized as the United States of America, gold will begin to flow into the treasury ten times as fast as Wall street can draw it out by demanding gold in payment for warehouse receipts issued by the treasury on deposits of silver.

These significant expressions of public opinion should not be lightly passed lic opinion should not be lightly passed over. They show that the financial question is liable to become a burning ssue in the west. Here is something for our statesmen to ponder over.

Big Enough for All. We find in The Augusta Evening

Herald this paragraph, which suggests comment: A correspondent tells us that while prognostication that there may yet be an anti-administration and an admisistration party in Georgia is correct, we do wrong to stir up such a question by alluding to it at this time. Well, we must give the news.

But our contemporary is not giving the news. It is making a prediction. and we think the prediction is altogether unwarranted. The democratic platform is big enough to hold the admin istration and all the rest of the party and that is what the platform is for: to guide the administration and to satisfy the people. Either an administration or an anti administration party would be an absurdity, and all talk about such a thing is sensational. The administration was elected on the democratic platform; the people endorsed the platform; and nothing is more unlikely than that either the administration or the people will undertake to repudiate that declaration of principles, or persist for any length of time in giving to its pledges and demands an unjustifiable interpretation. It is clearly to be borne in mind by every democrat and by all democrats that the administration has not yet had a chance to legislate on the lines demanded by the party. The congress which was chosen with it, and which ought to have assembled with it, has not yet been organized in the popular branch, and the administration has had no opportunity to rid itself of embarrassing legislation, or to aid in carrying out the pledges made in the platform in conformity to the just de mands of the people. The democratic platform is broad enough for all. It declares that protection is unconstitutional, and demands a tariff for revenue only. It says that there shall be no discrimination against silver, and declares in favor of bimetallism-the free coinage of both metals on terms of equality. It recommends the repeal of the 10 per cent prohibitory tax on state bank circulation, and thereby declares in favor of restoring the currency to the control of the

In short, the democratic platform covers every reasonable demand and every reform that can be demanded or expected by the people, for out of its pledges grows the promise of other reforms, such as the income tax. It is big enough for all democrats to stand on, and those who do not stand on it are not democrats. The Sherman Silver Law. We desire once more to call the atention of The Courier-Journal to the facts in the case of the Sherman silver law. We have no objection whatever to the radical change that has been made in the policy of Mr. Watterson's Whatever reasons are behind they are evidently satisfactory to those who control The Courier-Journal Being so, they are satisfactory to us. There can be no explanation of the change that will illuminate the minds of those who remember the active part our contemporary has taken as the champion of the financial interests of the people, and the least said about it But we do not propose that The Courier-Journal, by intimation or otherwise, shall place in a false position those with whom it formerly sympathized and in whose behalf it was zealous. We do not propose that the blmetallists shall be saddled with the Sherman law of 1890 or be held responsible for its results. Our contempo rary remarks that "the advocates of the silver act of 1890" (it has suddenly ceased to be the Sherman law) "promised that it would increase the price of silver and bring it to $1.29 an ounce, at which figure a silver dollar would be at par with a gold dollar." Here the intimation is strong that bimetallists are responsible for the Sherman law, and that they promised that its provisions would bring silver to a parity with gold in the open market without the necessity of adding to its intrinsic value by means of free coinage, which confers on a metal potential money power. But did any bimetallist not connected with the silver mines support the Sherman law? Did any free coinage democrat make such promises or even vote for the measure? Did any newspaper in favor of free coinage The truth is, the bimetallists were loud in their opposition. They saw in the measure a recognition of silver bullion as a mere commodity to be used as the basis of money and they protest ed against it in and out of congress. The Courier-Journal says that parties are responsible for the failure to repeal the Sherman law in the last congress, but this is a mistake. The failure to repeal the act rests with the very element that invented and imposed it on the country-the republican goldbugs of the John Sherman stripe. There never was a day, when the bimetallists in congress were not ready to repeal the Sherman law and substitute for it legislation more in accordance with the designs of the people and the democratic party. The goldolators set their faces against such substitute legislation and so the act went unrepealed; and so it will go unrepealed by the next congress unless substitute legislation more favorable to the interests of the people can be enacted. Where the democratic platform denounces the Sherman law as "a makeshift," the phrase means something. It means as much as the same phrase would mean when employed under standingly by any representative of the people. A "makeshift" is a temporary expedient, a substitute for some hing better, and when the democratic platform denounces the Sherman law as a "makeshift," it puts the people on not tolerate this makeshift, but will substitute for it real legislation in the interest of the people.

It is to be presumed that the editor of The Courier-Journal understands the situation. It is to be supposed that he is aware of the fact that the Sherman act cannot be repealed now or at any other time in the near future unless the goldolators and the money sharks agree to substitute legislation along the lines and in the direction of a larger and freer use of silver as money. It is simply a minority that stands in the way of such substitute legislation. Whenever this minority, powerful on account of the length of its purse, stands out of the way and permits the people to carry out their designs the Sherman law will be promptly repealed. Those who expect the people or their representatives to stand aside and permit the gold sharks to have their way are preparing themselves for a serious disap pointment. Another fact that will bear repetition is this: That the people are serene in the midst of this so-called gold crisis. They are untouched by it. They are merely spectators of the flurry that has been going on among the "eminent bankers" and the "expert financiers." And yet their serenity is not due to their ignorance. There never was a time in the history of the country when the average voter was so thoroughly informed as to the financial situation. They can find nothing to worry about They perceive that our whole stock of coined silver has been temporarily discarded and demonetized by the refusal to recognize it as a money of redemption in the payment of silver notes, but they are not worried. They perceive that this policy will have a tendency to depreciate silver coin and silver notes and to bring about a premium on gold but they are not worried. They know that in the end they will have their way and carry out their designs.

"Two Civilizations." A northern minister discourses in The Nashville Christian Advocate the proposition that the north and south have different civilizations, and comes to the conclusion that there is no essential difference. Naturally, this northern writer devotes considerable space to the status of the negro. He calls attention to the fact that within the memory of men now living New England favored slavery and persecuted the abolitionists. The prejudice against the negro was so strong in the north that John Quincy Adams said that Desdemona deserved her misfortunes for "marrying a pig-

This prejudice is still very active. If in the south negroes are barred out of white hotels and made to ride in separate cars, their status is practically the same in the north. In 1890 the Rev. Dr. Hector and his family, educated colored people, were turned away from three hotels in Massachu setts on account of their race. They were also refused a ride in a stage coach for the same reason. Dr. Hector found on the cars that no white per son would share his seat with him. 'i b St. Paul Press Club blacaballed an editor because he was a negro. It is the ame north or south. Two civilizations are uch because they present distinct character istics of people varying essentially. Is this the case between north and south? No. The people live in the same kind of houses, dress similarly, worship the same God, sing the same hymns, observe the same customs of society, eat similar food, consult the same authorities for the fashions, and so on through the whole minutia of things con-cerned. It is quite common in the south to see business partnerships between northern and southern men, in which, for the life of me, I am unable to distinguish which is which in the question of civilization. We or the north hear somewhat of "young bloods" of the south, "high-spirited" young men with peculiar notions of respectability, honor, etc. We have the same kind in the north. "Fast roung men" they are. They are not the products of the civilization of either section, but of individual tomfoolery and prodigality. Can the other civilization match our sor Can the other civilization maten our sons of United States senators figuring as horse jock-ies, dog fanciers and other respectable loaf-ers of "upper-tens?" If so, lead them out. These are not "sprigs" of the civilization poculiar to any section to which they belong, out come of that hotbed of good-for-nothing-ness found in aristocratic circles that have ness found in aristocratic circles that have never given greatness to the world. Such products of character remind us of the old Spanish proverb: "Grandfather, farmer; fath-er, trader; son, gentleman; grandson, beg-

All this makes interesting reading, but this northern minister is too hard on his own section when he says that the announcement of a political candidate's loyalty to Christian principles and institutions insures his defeat in the north. Fortunately, this is true of no state in the union-of no corner of our republic. We believe that the man who carries his Christianity into public life and into his daily business cannot fail to be loved and respected by the majority, no matter where he lives. In the main, however, we agree with this candid writer. After all, we are one people, animated by the genuine American spirit, and our various local peculiarities are not more divergent than those which exist in other countries. In England, for instance, the difference in the customs and dialect of the people of some countries is more marked than anything of the kind to be found in this country from Maine to Texas. The American people have different shades of political belief, and certain local characteristics, but when the test comes they show the spirit of true fraternity, and north and south, east and west stand by each other with helpful and brotherly sympathy. We have only one civilization, and the lights and shadows of diversity playing over it are

"The Gazette has not stated that Captain Cotton would be in the race. Then again it does not seem that it will keep silver upon a parity with gold which the Chicago platform calls for, and upon which Cleveland was elected. "The drawback under which Atlanta has so long suffered, of adverse freight rates, is in a fair way of adjustment. One year ago there were one hundred and thirty-four articles upon which Atlanta was discriminated against. Rates were given to Chatanooga and other surrounding cities, which were almost ruinous to Atlanta, and it was only the never-say-die determination of the Atlanta traders that survived the attack. We went before Commissioner Stahlman, however, and asked, not that we be given cheaper rates than others, but that we be put upon an equality. This request has, to a great extent, been complied with, and now we have a fair showing before the people of the country."

"One of the most encouraging signs of the times to me," continued Mr. Meador, "is the fact that the business now being done is largely on a cash basis. The people in the surrounding country have ceased to do such an indiscriminately credit business, and now trade with the air of men who want all the advantages which to men who have the cash with which to buy what they want. A successful city must have surrounding it a self-sustaining and prosperous country. The prosperity of all the people within a day's ride of the city goes to make up the prosperity of the city itself. My observation this year is that the people of our country have reached that stage where they are able to take care of themselves, and are independent. A city built upon a surrounding country which is wealthy enough to sustain it is bound to be prosperous. In that way I come to the conclusion that Atlanta has reached a stage of development which is not to be measured by her lines of incor-poration, but, that her influence extends out in every direction as far as a day's sun

"The company will play in Macon all this week. Mr. Clarke, under the direction of Messrs. Henry Horne and Sanford H. Cohen, has made this venture late in the season, assured that there is a demand for good drama among the people of the south during the spring months. He has opened his season in Macon, and is deserving of every encouragement.

"Waite all members of the Clarke company are deserving of the most favorable mention. Miss Martha Ford, a daughter of the veteran John T. Ford, ought to attract public approval and deserves the kindliest treatment at the hands of the Macon audience, She is talented and has inherited much of her father's great dramatic force. She will, during this week, win laurels for herself and a place in the hearts of our theater-goers."

The Symphony Orchestra.

The New York Symphony orchestra, to appear here on the afternoon and evening of May 11th, can claim for its home the most magnificent music hall in the world, for Carnesie Music Hall in New York, was really built for the talented young conductor of the organization, Mr. Waiter Damrosch. To him almost entirely belongs the credit for the existence of both hall and orchestra. Some additions have recently been planned, which will be completed by next autumn, to include several hundred new rooms, a roof garden and a tower. When finished this building will have cost nearly $2,000,000, and with its main auditorium, holding 3,000 people, three smaller halls holding together 2,000 more, and hundreds of artists and teachers' studios, art galleries, schools, etc., it will be the greatest art center in America. It is here that the symphony orchestra give all their symphony and popular concerts, and where the Oratorio Society, of which Mr. Waiter Damrosch is director, give their performances, assisted by the symphony orchestra. No less an authority than Paderewski himself has declared that the acoustics of the music hall are unequaled by any hall in Europe, and he refuses to play elsewhere in New York.

The tax receiver, Mr. T. M. Armistead, and his deputy, Mr. John L. Gatins, are now busily engaged in receiving the tax returns of the county.

Those who are required to give in their city tax across the street will find it a valuable saving of time to drop in the tax re-ceiver's office and give in for the state and county also. To quote a trite expression it is "killing two birds with one stone," and in a large city like Atlanta where there are so many interests at stake and such a mul-titude of business men, it is very important to economize time.

The recorder's office was crowded yesterday by a large number who were anxious to settle the matter of making their re-turns in order to relieve themselves of any embarrassment later. As you register for your city taxes today go by the tax receiver's office and give in your state and coun-

The Atlantas took another game from the Chattanoogas yesterday in the presence of the largest crowd that has gathered on the Chattanooga grounds this season.

The score was somewhat one-sided, but up to the eighth inning was uncertain.

Easton opened the box work for Chattanooga, but in the third inning, after Atlanta had pounded out three runs, he was removed and the Menafee brothers were put in the points. Menafee's pitching was fine up to the eighth inning, when he let down and Murray's men jumped on him for seven runs.

Rettger's pitching was fine. Of the seven hits made off him he kept them well scattered, so well that Chattanooga could score only in one inning.

The Atlantas appeared to have their batting clothes on and slugged the ball right and left. The two Chattanooga pitchers gave up between them fifteen hits. The story from Chattanooga says:

The left-handed curves of Miller of Macon, battled the Sea Gulls today and kept them fanning the air or hitting pop files all the afternoon, otherwise the game was exceedingly decayed. Savannah, Ga., April 28.—(Special.)—Savannah and Augusta played another close and exciting game of ball this afternoon in the presence of about two thousand, five hundred people. Both teams were retired in one-two-three order till the fifth, when Augusta made one on a hit, two sacrifices and a wild pitch. Augusta secret two more in the sixth on a base on balls, a triple and an error. Savannah made her only run in the seventh on two two-baggers, one by Nicholl and the other by Cross. Savannah could do but little with Shaw's slow delivery, and Augusta could do nothing at all with Petty, making only two hits off him. Quaries, Savannah's new pitcher, will pitch tomorrow. New Orleans, April 28.—(Special.)—New Orleans had no difficulty in defeating Nashville today. The home team played a listless half-hearted game at times or the visitors would have been shut out. Bammert, who has been signed by Owensboro, Ky., was replaced at short by Baldwin, who shared the general apathy of the home team. Nashville's game was ragged at times, its errors being rank and at critical stages. Both Leach and Vickery were wild, the former sending seven and the latter six to bases., Sheridan umpired and treated both teams finely.

Donahue was substituted in the fifth inning, but shared no better fate than his predecessor. In short, the sluggers got slugged to death. At Cincipnati—Citcago turned the tables on The trip from Rome to Tryon was a hard one, and was up a mountain side. The road seems to have been quite muddy and the trip was a hard one, both men having to walk a greater part of the way.

From Tryon to LaFayette the trip was down hill and on a compartively good road. The distance is about twelve miles, and the men made it in good time. From LaFayette Mr. Howard telegraphed his paper as to his whereabouts and declared that Mr. Durant was dogging his footsteps. Nothing was heard from Mr. Durant, however, until late last night, when a message came from Chattanooga bearing his signature.

The trip from LaFayette to Chattanooga Batteries-Weyhing and Clements; Stein and was a hard one on both men. The first ten or twelve miles of the way was up a steep mountain side, and the rest of the way was through mud from eight to ten inches deep in places. So steep was the mountain side that the men were compelled to walk most of the way and push their machines along, while, after crossing the mountain, it was almost a walking match on into Chattanooga, so deep was the mud. Both men appear anxious to win the race, and Durant seems to think that his chances lay in dogging Howard until they reach the turnpike west of the Cumberland. Howard appears to be anxious to shake Durant, and is doing everything he can to dodge him, but Durant is watchful and catches up with every attempt made to shake him. The company of Foote is a decided advantage for Howard, as while he is resting and sleeping Foote is on the watch, whereas Durant is wholly at the mercy of Howard when he is asleep. More than once on the trip Foote's watching while Durant was asleep has given Howard the chance to slip away, but on each occasion Durant has bent himself to his work and overtaken the fleeing rival. So far harder work and faster work.

In his telegram from Chattanooga last Chattanooga, Tenn., April 28.—(Special.) I reached Chattanooga this afternoon at 7 o'clock, Howard following three-quarters of an hour later. My Columbia is in orime condition, though the wheels of both Howard and Foote's machines have been repeatedly broken.

inquiry among the wheelmen and others who know, shows me that there is practically but one course that can be followed without losing vantage ground. Yester-day I followed Howard out of Rome, and in order to prevent a repetition of his tac-tics of the previous night, when he got five hours the start of me by taking the road in the middle of the night, slept in the same hotel at Tryon, having posted the servant to wake me if he started.

Again today I trailed Howard. A heavy rain began falling about 10 clock and we took refuge in a barn. I went to sleep on a pile of fodder and Foote shape, and says that Tom Hayne is giving skinned out in the rain with Howard, leav-

In the eastern lake region and in the vicinity of the north Atlantic coast temperatures rose rapidly yesterday, and the weather reported last night in all northeastern states was warm and seasonable. In New York city it was about twenty degrees warmer yesterday than on Thursday. Warm weather continues in all the southern half of the country and is excellent for the growth of all crops.

The highest temperature reported yesterday was 90 degrees at Tampa and Jacksonville. For Georgia today: Probable local showers by afternoon or night; no decided change in temperature. ed Chattanooga three-quarters of an nour in advance.

When I got here I found several telegrams from Aflanta, stating that there is talk there of a hippodrome, because Howard and I happen to have taken pretty much the same route from Rome. The fact is, the first day out, I found that Howard had a great advantage over me, by reason of the fact that he has Foote with him. While the roads are so bad, and the contest resolves itself into a walking match, the man who puts in the most hours in twenty-four makes the most mileage. twenty-four makes the most mileage. Both men slept Thursday night in Tryon, which is about twenty-five miles from Rome, and early in the morning were on their way to LaFayette, in Walker county. The trip from Rome to Tryon was a hard one, and was up a mountain side. The read seems to have been engaged in business on Peters street for some time. Night before last he started to the home of W. H. Daniels, another butcher, for the purpose of killing Daniels, but was arrested just as he reached Daniels's gate and by the arrest of the butcher came out at the trial yesterday. A case of disorderly conduct was made out against him, but yesterday it developed into a state case. Nicholls states that his wife went off and spent a half day with Daniels the day of the difficulty and in a fit of jealous rage he gathered his pistol and started to the home of Daniels's gate and by the arrest of the butcher came out at the trial yesterday. Jack Livingston, a blind negro, may not have the sense of sight, but he has the faculty of raising a racket and when he raises one he cleans up the hill, as was demonstrated in police court; yesterday afternoon when the blind man was arraigned for running three negro women away from home. Livingston also proved that he had developed the art of oratory to some extent.

April 28.—The Reading plays in the newspapers yesterday mornin and as the New York market was close Philadelphia being open, the buils had an easmatter to mark up the price of the stock that market and influenced the London maket to such an extent that the foreigners we fairly wild with anxiety to buy stock. The views here about the new plan of ree ganization is very much mixed, but still withink that insiders will keep these securities strong, so as to add to the popularity of the cheme. THE CHICAGO MARRET

Features of the Speculative Movement in Grain and Provisions.

CHICAGO, April 28.-The highest price of 7.69 0. ...

The price darted back and forth like a trout on an angler's line. After an advance of 45 cents at the opening it closed 12 1-2 cents lower than the day before. Without allowing a moment to breathe, brokers identified with the old Cudahy-Wright clique began to boom pork at the start, and within a few minutes after the opening September pork had crossed the line and reached $20.10, against $19.70 at the close last night. Then the clique unloaded, and under heavy selling the market dropped back to $19.50, the lowest price for the day. Here the clique brokers began to buy heavily and the market rose to $19.80. From this time to the close the fluctuations were moderate, ranging between $19.70 and $19.60, at which latter price the market closed. It was a general theory that the clique was striving to realize profits on the advance, the later buying being necessary in order to check the decline that had started, and at the same time kept the market in control for scalping purposes. This is the plan on which the clique worked its May wheat deal for a long period, and which proved successful in the rib deal.

The wheat market started firm and for an hour or so it remained so, with buying orders from outside the more numerous. The firm cables and cold weather in the northwest were the buil factors, but private cables reported that it was raining in southern France and Germany and this quickly developed weakness. There was laso the assurance that the pretended Kansas crop, report, which excited the market yesterday, was a fake and this helped to undermine confidence. Linu, Rumsey, Chaudher, Armour and Milmine-Bodman began to sell freely. There was liquidation by longs and the prices turned downward, finally losing 5-8c. from the opening figure. Cudahy was reported to be a good seller of July, through numerous brokers. Later reports of large purchases for export helped the market. Private advices from Kansas said the prospects were worse than ever. The reported threatening rain in Paris did not appear to have faller. Abel

WRITING OBSCENE LETTERS.

The New Justice of the Peace Law Put to Attorneys.

Mr. C. W. Hodnett, a prominent and wealthy lawyer of Jonesboro, Ga., was arrested yesterday on a bench warrant, and gave bond before Clerk O. C. Fuller, of the United States court. The charge that rests against Mr. Hodnett is that of sending obscure letters

An indictment was found against Mr. Hodnett on Tuesday by the grand jury, but nothing was given out about it as the person against whom it was found was not un-

The true bill against Mr. Hadnett sets forth that he wrote and deposited in the Jonesboro postoffice letters of such a character that it would be impossible, within the bounds of common decency to place upon bounds of common decency to place upon the records. Some of the letters were writ-ten to Mr. A. W. Hodnett, who works at 43 1-2 East Alabama street, and others were written to Mr. W. W. Farmer. The letters are denounced as "obscene, lewd, scurrilous, vulgar, indecent and lascivious, and some of the letters are in evidence.

The arrest of Mr. Hodnett, who was served with the bench warrant by Deputy Marshal Abercrombie, was a surprise to those who learned of it, as Mr. Hodnett has always borne a character that was considered to be above reproach, and his friends assert that there must be some mistake, and assert that there must be some mistake, and declare that all will be well when Mr. C. W. Hodnett is brought to trial. He was was allowed to give bond in the sum of $1,000, which he found not the least difficulty in making. As a lawyer, Mr. Hodnett has a fine place in the profession, and the indictment of the United States grand jury fell like a thunderbolt among his friends and acquaintances.

The true bill found against Mr. Hodnett recalls the suit of Mrs. Rebecca L. Hodnett recalls the suit of Mrs. Rebecca L. Hodnett against Mr. W. H. H. Morrow, who is a very prominent and wealthy citizen of Jonesboro. The case is now on the civil side of the United States court docket and may be called for trial in a few days.

When both cases are heard there will undoubtedly be some very sansational evidence brought forward.

That New Revenue Law Tested. Mention has been made frequently of the new law which requires the deputy marshals to carry their prisoners before the nearest justices of the peace for trial; and it was further shown by a table of fees that the deputy marshal would make about 50 cents a day if he could get together witnesses a day if he could get together witnesses But the law has been tested and in a very funny way.

Deputy Collector Ware went out on a raid the early part of this week into Dawson county, and went alone as he could not get a deputy marshal to go with him, the pay being too small. The deputy collector pay being too small. The deputy collector ran into a nest of moonshiners and arrest's ed three of them, Bart Crane and his two sons. It happens that Bart Crane is a justice of the peace, so the deputy collector released him and took his two sons before him. Bart Crane refused to do this and Deputy collector Ware was obliged to allow all of them to go free.

The deputy collector cites this as an instance where the new law failed to work.

No Indictments in Bedwine Investigation.

No Indictments in Redwine Investigation No Indictments in Redwine Investigation

The grand jury adjourned at 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon without having found any further indictments in the Redwine case. Judge Newman wanted the grand jury to adjourn until the 15th of the month at the least. The witnesses subpoenaed for the day were released early in the day. The grand jury adjourned until Monday.

THE COMPANY HERE ALL RIGHT.

The Erroneous Report Sent from Savannah Corrected.

The Erroneous Report Sent from Savannah Corrected.

Mr. Tom Ricketts, of the Ricketts-Mathews Company, denies the report sent out from Savannah, of a breaking up of that company there. He says:

"Some misinformed individual states that the Ricketts-Mathews Company 'stranded in Savannah. Such is not the case. It had been the intention of the management of the Ricketts-Mathews Company to close its season of six months in Savannah, for the opera season in Allanta. A certain member of the company piqued at not being one of the number to be engaged for the opera season took advantage of a slight claim he had against the company and without warning of any kind filed an attachment upon some of the property, whereupon, to avoid further annoyance, the company was closed at once. The statement that the company, and its members are "in the soup" and have no money to get home, and had to be "forwarded by the railroad company," is grossly false. Those who were previously engaged for the opera company here, were brought in the regular manner, the balance of the people chose to remain in Savannah to work for Mr. Winters at his summer gardens. Everyone is provided for and no obligations whatever was asked. Everything was done in a strictly business manner to provide for the people. The company did not strand but closed its season, and the people were taken care of who were unable to help themselves.

A TRUE BILL FOUND THE BANK BUILDING.

Against Mr. C. W. Hodnett, of Jonesboro, It Was Sold for $160,000 to Messrs. W. H. and S. H. Venable.

THE TERMS WERE STRICTLY CASH.

Present-What Bank Examiner Stone Has to Say About It,

For reasons which he considered sufficient Bank Examiner Stone refused Thursday to give out the names of the parties that had purchased the Gate City bank building, notwithstanding the fact that the deal was closed Wednesday morning, but yesterday he decided to tell the names, give out the amount paid and the terms.

Messrs. William H. and Samuel H. Venable of the firm of Venable Bros., were the buyers, and the price paid was $160,000 and the terms cash.

The transaction has been hanging fire for some time, and for awhile it looked as if the parties could not agree upon a price. The value of the building has been estimated by men acquainted with Atlanta real estate and central property at $200,000, and this was not considered exhorbitant. President Hill, as a matter of course, wanted to get as much money as possible for the building and it was this amount he offered the bank place to the Venable Brothers. After a considerable amount of talk President Hill reduced his figures to $185,000. This did not have the desired effect, as that amount in cash can not be found ready for use every day. Finally, however, the sum of $160,000 was the figure at which both use every day. Finally, however, the sum of $160,000 was the figure at which both sides met and the result is that in a few days the title of the estate will go into the hands of Messrs. S. H. and W. H. Venable, who succeeded in purchasing a fine piece of property at a reasonable price.

This amount added to what is already on deposit at the Atlanta National bank will swell the grand total to figures sufficient to pay, not only the depositors in full, but the stockholders also. Mr. Stone, who has declared all along that both the stockholders and depositors would be paid in full, says that Mr. Hill is entitled to the greatest praise for the sacrifice he has made in the sale of the building at such figures. Mr. Stone kept a clear head through the entire bank affair.

"I did not want to give out the particulars of the sale," said Bank Examiner Stone, "until everything had been settled finally and without the least shadow of a doubt. The sacrifice made by President Hill is one for which he should receive all praise, and if there had been any doubt in the minds of the most incredulous as to whether or not the depositors would be paid in full those doubts certainly should be driven away by the news of the sale of the bank building. I ean guarantee that the stockholders will receive dollar for dollar just as I have believed all along would be the case. After the lawyers finish with the papers of the sale it will take us about three days to conclude our part of the transaction and then the depositors may get all their money if they feel so disposed."

They Are Out of Town.

Mr. S. H. Venable and Mr. W. H. Venable, the gentlemen who purchased the building, are out of town and consequently could not be seen. What they intend to do with their investment is not known. There was a rumor to the effect that the gentlemen named had purchased it for the New York Life Insurance. A very close friend of the two stated that they purchased it merely as a good investment, which it it merely as a good investment, which certainly seems to be at the price paid.

Revolution In Eating

has been brought about by the introduction of COTTOLENE, the new vegetable shortening. The discovery of this product, and the demonstration of its remarkable qualities, has attracted the widest interest. Hitherto the common shortening has been lard, or indifferent butter. Every one has probably suffered occasional discomfort from lard-cooked food; while it is well known that thousands are obliged to abstainentirely from everything of that kind. To such people, COTTOLENE is of peculiar value, widening as it does, the range of what may be eaten and enjoyed. COTTOLENE is a cooking marvel. It combines with the food-imparts to it a tempting color, a delicate flavor, and an appetizing crispness. No trace of greasiness remains to offend the taste, or disturb the digestion.

COTTOLENE is worthy of the careful notice of all those who value good food, of itself or for its hygienic properties.

The offer made by us to guarantee a cure or refund the money is genuine and without reserve, the only exception being in desperately severe or incurable cases. This is no more than fair. Mr Goodtaste Tells His Picnic Experience

Mr Goodtaste Tells His Picnic Experience
Last Summer.

Upon being asked what was the most enjoyable event of his life, Mr. Goodtaste says it was his picnic on the 10th of last May. He says, "I had an engagement with Miss Belle — to act as her escort and to have a good time generally together. The sun was bright and clear that May morning, and about 8 o'clock six couples of us started in a big wagon to Ball Springs. We were a jolly party and arrived at the springs in high spirits. The morning was spent agreeably in dancing and talking, and then we adjourned to the Big spring for dinner. I had my place next to Miss Belle, and never enjoyed a dinner as much. Why. I can remember yet what we had for dinner there. First, I was handed sandwiches with deliclous sandwich chicken between the bread. Then, fresh and crisp Saratoga chips that tasted just like they had come from the dven; French sardines (I bless the man who invented the key to open them with—they were so little trouble); salmon, lobster and shrimps were the meats that we had. Chow-chow pickies, and the best home-made stuffed cucumbers ever eaten. The olives, too, were large and julcy. I had no idea they were so good. Then, we had deliclous peaches in heavy syrup—why half of one peach filled a saucer; and the vanilla and ginger wafers suited them exactly. How much I did enjoy a glass of iced Tolo tea. It was exhilerating and pleasant and delicious. Well, the dinner finally came to an end, as all good things must do.

"After dinner we dispersed in couples and Miss Belle and I sat under a big oak tree. I was partly in love with her before; but that dinner finished me. I could withstand her charms no louger, backed as they were by such delicious cooking. Yours has converted me. Will you be mine? "Mr. Goodtaste," says I, I have always loved you, but feared to marry, as I had heard so much about young housekeepers' cooking. Yours has converted me. Will you be mine? "With rapture I cried, 'Be mine, my darling, and as we have continued to buy the freshest and best

Of course, this does not apply to those who have registered already. Those who were eligible to vote in the first county election of the year will be competent voters in the forthcoming election, but all who have failed to register at all and who desire to vote on the issue of bonds had better give the matter their attention without delay.

The public is familiar with the arguments which have been made in the controversy over these bonds. It is claimed by a great many that the county is over-

There is no getting around any of these needs, and if they fail to come in the way of bonds, divided up into easy payments, they will have to come by way of direct taxation.

From the present outlook there seems to be little doubt of the result. For several weeks there has been a growing sentiment in favor of the bonds and many who were at first violently opposed to their Issue are now enthusiastic in favor of the appropriation.

"NOTHING LIKE IT"

LOWELL GROCER HAS TO SAY OF AYER'S

Sarsaparilla SPRING MEDICINE.

Dec. 2 1891.

"A year ago last spring, my partner died, and the whole burden and responsibility of a large grocery business, fell upon me. The increased care and hard work, in connection with the low state of my blood, from which I had always suffered during the early spring, so severely taxed my strength that I became all run down, had no appetite, was weak, nervous, and endured all the torments which headache, indigestion, general debility, and total loss of energy, could possibly inflict. The medicines recommended me by my physicians did no more good than so much water. AYER'S Sarsaparilla being favorably brought to my attention, I tried it, and, in a short time, began to feel better. I continued to take this medicine for nearly two months, at the end of which time I felt like a new man. My appetite, energy, and strength returned, my food digested perfectly, and all traces of headache and nervousness disappeared. I am convinced that if I had not taken AYER'S Sarsaparilla, instead of being strong and well, when the WARM WEATHER set in, I should have been confined to my bed, under the doctor's care, and totally unable to attend to business. I am a thorough believer in the merits of AYER'S Sarsaparilla for restoring to healthy, vigorous action, the vital organs of the body, when they have become weakened or exhausted from any cause. As a spring medicine, there is nothing like it."
